

The Soviet Union & Warsaw Pact Countries

A Very Brief Background

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics commonly known as the Soviet Union was a constitutionally socialist state that existed in Eurasia between 1922 and 1991. The Soviet Union was a single-party political system dominated by the Communist Party until 1990. The USSR was a union of Soviet republics with the capital in Moscow and was a highly centralized state.

The Soviet Union and its Eastern European satellite states engaged in what was known as the Cold War which was a prolonged global ideological and political struggle against the United States and its Western Bloc allies. The Cold War was a continuing state of military and political tension and posturing between the Western and Eastern Powers from 1947 to 1991. The military forces of the East and West never engaged in any major battles or conflicts with each other there was a considerable amount of military posturing through strategic and conventional forces deployed around the world.

The USSR and the US saw each other as natural enemies of each other's basic way of life. The Soviet Union created the Eastern Bloc with countries that it occupied, these countries were known as satellite states and acted as a buffer zone between the West and Mother Russia.

In retaliation to the quick growth of the Soviet Union/Eastern Bloc, a number of Western countries formed the North Atlantic Treaty Organisation whereby its member states agree to mutual defence in response to an attack by any external party.
